Rosen Divorce On-line Child Support Calculator Revamped

Raleigh, NC- Rosen Divorce, the state's largest divorce firm known for its unique approach to handling marital disputes, recently revamped their on-line child support calculator making it more user-friendly.

The new child support calculator takes the user step-by-step through the process and explains each element of the formula to determine respective child support expenses. "We realized a lot of people weren't sure which worksheet to use, so now the calculator determines the proper worksheet based on answers inputted in the wizard," says Lee Rosen, attorney and president of Rosen Divorce. The calculator displays recommended child support amounts and uses the information provided to complete a printable worksheet that can even be filed with the court.

Rosen Divorce recognizes the need for families to have the ability to quickly and easily determine child support. "We wanted to make this as easy as possible for our clients and anyone else visiting our site," says Rosen. The new child support calculator makes it easier for parents or attorneys to input the relevant information, including monthly income and the amount of time children spend with both parents, to determine individual child support obligations. The user can fill in the information and the child support calculator will determine obligations instantaneously, for both parties.

"Our new calculator is completely different from North Carolina's state calculator, it's a whole new way of figuring out child support expenses," says Rosen. "We had the first calculator up on the web where tens of thousands of people have used it over the years. We know what works and what doesn't, so we totally revamped the calculator based on our users' ideas."

Some companies charge an upwards of $45 to do the same calculation that's free using Rosen Divorce's child support calculator. It's quick in response and accurate, as it's based on the guidelines established by the Conference of Chief District Court Judges.
